DID YOU KNOW?

...ing turns and sharing in early childhood develops
...ren's social emotional skills in the early years,
...ing them to thrive in school and later life.

Speaking and then listening when others speak in a conversation
Taking turns in a game

Taking turns in line to get a drink from a water fountain

Waiting one's turn in a food line like in the cafeteria

Waiting while others have an opportunity to receive services such as a food server in a restaurant

Taking turns in moving situations such as when walking through a door or when turning at a stop sign

Taking turns to get on or off a school bus, or while waiting in line at the car drop off line

Taking turns using equipment like slides, swings

TURN AKING

Because it's not evil - it's ancient

Halloween's roots weren't born in darkness and devil worship. They came from harvest and gratitude, seasonal change, and honoring life's cycles. The ancient festivals of Samhain and All Hallows' Eve were about respecting the turning of time and respecting the sanctity of life - not worshipping fear. So we're not buying into the nonsense of this being the devil's day 🍁🍂

Maamawi Family Circle

Together in Culture & Community

 Wednesdays • 1:00–3:15 PM

 Starting October 14

An Indigenous family centre gathering focused on culture, connection, and community.

Halloween

Party & Potluck

We will be having a little halloween party on Oct 30.

Wear a costume if you have, we will also have costumes here.

Feel free to bring a small snack to share at snack time.

No Nuts!

Cleanup Messages

We belong together; we are a team, and everyone has a part in the work of our classroom community.

We care for our classroom and our materials; caring for them is a goal we all share.

Clean up is more fun when we do it together.

We take the initiative to find something that needs to be done and start right in.

We keep working until the whole job is done, and done very well.
